

Donald Beteille and Christine Ferrer

First of all, it was a meeting.

Look Love Listen: A way to connect two universes through this proposition. We have been exchanging, dialoguing, to finally come back to our fundamental life choices: Being artist.

Frans Poelstra and Mirabella Dziruni

We loved to listen to each other and yes, sometimes we looked each other in the eyes. Not too long, we guess that's still a bit too intimate, maybe today during our presentation we look each other in the eyes longer. Strange, in front of a public this is probably easier. That will then be something we will learn today, looking in each others eyes. We also noticed that we have a big age difference, but this didn't stand in the way of sharing our life stories.
